

Daniela Sanzone

Reporter & Host Pomeriggio Italiano, OMNI News: Italian Edition

Daniela Sanzone proudly joined the news team at OMNI Television as a reporter. Today, she is also the host of Pomeriggio Italiano (The Italian Afternoon.)

Born and raised in Rome, Italy, Daniela Sanzone has had a passion for writing since elementary school. Daniela has a degree in Italian Literature, a master's in Communication Sciences and in Cultural Anthropology of complex societies from the University La Sapienza. Her career began as a journalist for Rai Television and as a film critic for several Italian magazines and daily newspapers before moving to Canada.

After moving to Toronto in 2000, Daniela worked for the Italian-language newspaper Corriere Canadese before landing a position at OMNI Television. For Daniela, working at OMNI means being a part of a great environment that embodies diverse cultures and languages. She also contributes to the Italian newswire Ansa, Italian-based daily newspapers, magazines, and has also co-authored a few books, including two about the Italian director Carlo Ludovico Bragaglia.

Daniela spends a great deal of time in the community, participating in various events and organizing focus groups on Italo-Canadian cinema at the Sulmona Film festival in Italy. Aside from that Daniela spends as much time as she can with the love of her life, her daughter Camilla!

You can connect with Daniela on her blog (<http://www.italy2canada.com>) or on Facebook and Twitter.
